Impact Assessment – why is this happening?

In recent years, the number of people going into banks and building society branches has dropped. Many customers like to manage their accounts online. They also use less cash to pay for things. Because of this, many banks and building societies have closed branches or moved employees to new roles.

As a Society, we've seen this in our own branches. We've had around a 40% drop in transactions in branches since 2018. But it's still important to us to keep a presence in the cities and towns we serve. To support this, we did a full refurbishment of our branches in 2022.

The graph below shows this continued trend since the start of 2023:

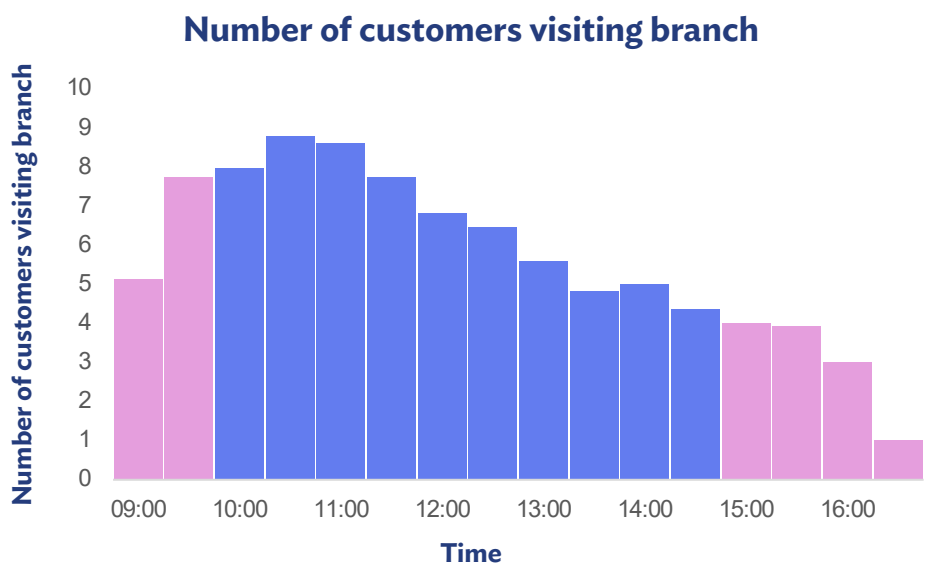

Why are Lydney's opening hours changing?

We've looked at how many customers use the branch each day. From the start of 2023, we have seen a decrease in the number of customers using the branch.

We also found that less customers use the branch at the start and end of the day.

The graph above shows the number of customers that visit the branch on an average day. It shows lots of customers visit the branch during the middle of the day (10.00am-3.00pm).

What will we do with the closed hours and our colleagues?

By shortening our branch opening hours, we can free up more time to help customers in other ways. This means answering calls during busy times and handling requests that come in by post or online.
